The Ang'los, or Guardians, have watched over and guided the world of Myridian since its creation. Yet Davrok, the guardian of balance, consumed by the power of death and darkness, wishes to consume all life. After a devastating war, Davrok was defeated by his brother Azarene and cast into Nihilum, a realm of pure nothingness. Yet somehow, from within his prison, Davrok spreads his darkness upon Myridian once again. A misguided king forges an alliance with Davrok's herald and begins a ritual to set Davrok free. However, a warrior of light has been created. Sensing this creation from within his prison, Davrok instills within him a seed of darkness; a void that calls this warrior away from the light. The path is narrow and the way is hard that leads to life, yet the path to destruction is wide and easily traveled.
