Happiness is the true suffering to maintain your dignity. Choosing to stand for your ideals and refusing to let it go at all times. This is the real life that Jonah Karicho Ndiritu who came as a student in America from Kenya endured at the height of his career. Jonah is trapped between chasing happiness and interpreting the meaning of life. A very gifted young man. He graduated with a degree in Chemistry, a degree in mathematics and a degree in Computer science. He compares hustling, jobs and independence in America from a practical real life perspective.
