

Mourning Morning

Pages:	266
Language	English
Author:	Scott Andrews
ISBN10:	1507692439
Genre:	Uncategorized
ISBN13:	9781507692431
Goodreads Rating:	4.50
Published:	February 21st 2015 by CreateSpace

Mourning Morning.pdf

Mourning Morning.epub

What if time was broken? Would life continue as normal? Or would everything just stop? For Norman Coleslaw, a young trainee journalist, a regular bicycle ride propels him into a week like nobody has ever experienced before. A week free from reality, and the constraints of time. Norman's search for truth leads him into the path of great danger, and eventually places him nipple-to-face with the most dangerous man Miranisha has ever known, General Alain de Wilderspin. Mourning Morning, the second novel from Scott Andrews, takes you on a riotous romp through the kind of absurd landscape which can only occur in a post-modern dictatorship.