Most drugs that your doctor will prescribe are produced in a lab and sold by large drug companies. Of course, these drugs have their place and do save some a lot of people from death or chronic illness. However, what is concerning is that so many ailments can be healed and so many symptoms can be eased by merely checking out what is already in your spice cabinet. I am writing this book to help people who are suffering needly from a variety of illnesses. I am not trying to debunk modern medicine or act as though people should simply give up on going to the doctor. The goal is to inform you of options and to encourage you to think about what you are eating and what you are ingesting. Just think. Ask questions. Be aware. This is your body and your life and if you don't care then no one will. I want people to know that there are alternatives to traditional medicine and that the answer is not always to pop a pill. I would never advise that you ignore your doctor's recommendations, however.

If you are suffering from a life-threatening illness then you should certainly listen to your doctor. However, you may want to try some of these herbs in conjunction with the more modernized medical treatments. They have been in use for hundreds, even thousands of years, and many people have seen results from using these 5 herbal remedies.

There are even modern studies that support that they do, indeed, work. If you have never tried using herbs for healing then it is worth mentioning that it will not require huge life changing choices. Many times you can simply cook with these herbs and they will be of help to you. There are also capsules of these herbs on the market which can be taken much in the same way that you would take a prescription pill. Still more, there are teas, tinctures, inhalers and topical treatments that incorporate herbs. You can decide which route that you would like to take. The method with which it is administered may vary depending on the herb itself and other factors. You should speak to a practitioner about what the best way to take your herbal medicine would be.
