The Knights of Passion series continues... After her cruel husband dies, Lady Isabella has sworn never to let any man into her heart. Or her bed. Until the knight Alric comes to warn her of impending danger. His handsome face and warrior's body attract her in a way no other has and yet seem to stir a memory within her. Have they met before, long ago? But how can she ever trust a man again? And yet there is an irresistible desire between them that will not go away, and when enemy forces rally outside her castle gates it is Alric she turns to.
