Hanukkah is coming, and for Celia Lerner, that means one thing: stress. Trying to get the perfect presents for her husband and daughters daunts her, and she ends up with a ticket on the way home from an unsuccessful shopping excursion. When she doesn't tell her husband David about her error, will she wind up over his knees for a sound spanking? There are approximately 6500 words in this domestic discipline short story. The alluring history of David and Celia can be found in David & Celia: New York Spankings Book Two. This short story contains adult material, including the consensual spanking of an adult woman.
