No one doubts that Chaz is a devoted husband and father, or that he is beginning to resent his job as an FBI Special Agent. As he becomes more and more determined to protect his family from the dangers that always come with his job, he and Stephanie take strongly opposing positions.

A horrible tension creeps into the relationship, threatening to destroy a love that is supposed to be unbreakable. How can this be happening to soul mates? Stephanie whole-heartedly believes that whenever Chaz has a choice, he'll choose her. She also knows she'll always help him. However, neither of them knows what to do when his strong instincts and her psychic visions are no longer in tune. The distance between them is gaining a stronger foothold with each new day, and one thing is clear—one of them is definitely wrong about what's best for their future. While this book can be read on its own, it is part of a three-book romantic suspense series. The first book is Premonitions and the second book is Loving Night. They introduce and expand on the love and partnership between this psychic and her FBI husband.
