Sam has finally accepted a position with Ron Thomas, Harry Winslow's former DHS Computer Wiz. He's now the Chief Investigator for Windlass Security Services, and his very first case is one of the most incredible of his entire career! He's got to solve the mystery behind the theft of one of the most innovative new technological advances in the world: a Brain-Computer Interface chip that can literally perform miracles. But this isn't science fiction; this case is coming straight out of the headlines of today! But like all technology, it can be used for good, or for evil. Sam and his new team of ultra-smart, ultra-savvy and ultra-capable investigators must overcome the most deadly threats they'll ever face in order to win through and save the world one more time! Come along as Sam and his team, both familiar friends and new, learn just what it means to live in the Brave New World that is already all around us!
