Doctor Jace Atkins leaves a successful medical career behind to open his own private practice. Looking for something different out of life, he hopes to find a small town to settle into.

His wish is granted when he moves into the serene and peaceful town of Absarokee, Montana. Talon Hart is a local fisherman and native to Absarokee. Known by many as the town's resident smart-ass, he also is a hard worker who prides himself on earning his keep. He's a man who lives life to the fullest and never takes a single moment for granted. When Jace and Talon meet, they couldn't be more different. An instant connection brings the two together, and they soon learn that opposites really do attract. Just as their relationship grows and they settle into one another's lives, an unknown danger threatens to tear them apart and all they hold dear.
