Warning: This ebook contains mature themes and scenes suitable for readers 18+! Leah has always been told to stay away from men who drove motorcycles because they were nothing but blood hungry criminals. However, Leah learned first-hand that every man who rode on a motorcycle weren't as bad as her mother claimed them to be. But when she met Justin, he was nothing like the picture her mother painted of motorcyclists. He was handsome, gentle, kind and she fell hard for him the moment her eyes lay eyes on each other. She began sneaking out to see him any chance that she got and even continued to see him. Then he dropped a bomb on her, revealing his dark past.

Will their love endure despite it all?
